

Women In Bio India Launch Event

Inauguration by Honourable Governor Mr. Martin Joseph O'Malley

Inaugural Speech by Ms. Nidhi Saxena, WIB India President

Women In Bio (www.womeninbio.org) launches its first international chapter in Mumbai, India on 30th November, 2011 from 4:00-6:00pm, at Trident BKC, Mumbai. Women In Bio India is spearheaded by a young and passionate woman entrepreneur, Ms Nidhi Saxena, CEO and Founder of one of the fastest growing CRO's, Karmic Lifesciences. The Honourable Governor of Maryland, Mr. Martin Joseph O'Malley will be gracing the occasion as chief guest. The Governor will be accompanied by a team of delegates from the U.S., and the attendees will include top women entrepreneurs, scientists and professionals from the Lifesciences Industry, coming from both India and USA.

The Women In Bio India chapter carries out WIB's mission to encourage and foster careers of women in the life sciences and biotechnology industries. In conjunction with WIB's chapters in the United States, the India chapter aspires to provide a platform and to open doors to bridge the gap that prevails between these two countries by offering opportunities to network and develop fruitful associations among its members.

Ms Nidhi Saxena is very excited about this gathering and quotes, "This is a great forum, and the first of its kind in the country, to bring together all the women who are a part of the Lifesciences Industry or seeking to be a part of it. Women In Bio India, will provide a platform for entrepreneurial development, academic scholarships, industry networking, and above all help create a voice to represent industry issues. I strongly believe that this organisational initiative will pave way for immense growth and success for all the dynamic women of the industry."
