

Women In Bio India Launch- A Great Success!

Wednesday, 30th November, 2011

Location: Mumbai, India

The first international chapter of Women In Bio, was successfully launched on 30th November, 2011, at Mumbai, India, by the hands of the Honourable Governor of Maryland, Mr Martin Joseph O'Malley. President of Women In Bio India, Ms Nidhi Saxena, and President & CEO Karmic Lifesciences, during her inaugural speech stressed on two key drivers for the Women In Bio

One, the concept of entrepreneurship- derived from a Hindi word 'Antarprerna' which stands for inner motivation and drive, and secondly, the importance of innovation.

This was followed by a discussion on the objectives and future plans of WIB India. The event was attended by a number of eminent people and key delegates including Dr. Judy Britz, Executive Director, Maryland Biotech Center, Dr. Nilima Kshirsagar, National Chair for Clinical Pharmacology(India) and over 60+ senior women representing various Pharma, CRO, IT companies in India and USA. Dr. Nilima Kshirsagar was felicitated and awarded the WIB India Achiever of the Year Award for 2011 by the Governor Mr O'Malley.

This event embarks the beginning of a new phase for development and growth for many women in India who pursue or wish to pursue their careers in the Lifesciences and Biotech industry.
